

CEO Breakfast | Leading people

Local Government WorkCare Forum | Monday 11 October, 2021

Local government leaders are adept at navigating a complex legislative and regulatory environment and in 2021/22 it's changing again.

The Work, Health and Safety Act 2020 (WA) raises questions around organisational and personal responsibility alongside how it relates to the existing legislation of workers' compensation and workplace relations.

Local government CEO's are invited to join LGIS' panel of legal experts for a fireside chat exploring the ramification of new regulations on the local government sector and the implications for its leaders. We'll cover areas such as:

- A CEO's duty of care and personal responsibility
- How to influence and improve outcomes
- Working with councillors
- The law vs 'what's right'

CEOs know the importance of frank conversation around complex issues – this events provides an opportunity to ask legal experts with decades of combined experience the curly questions that arise for local government leaders managing complex organisations.

Sharing experiences and practical strategies

LGIS has curated the CEO Breakfast to specifically address the issues that CEO's are discussing with us. The program for the breakfast is as follows.
